Excerpt: . the point is fully discussed, and the reason given for the exclusion, that the bill, together with statements of facts, usually also contains allegations made with no other object than to obtain a discovery on the oath of the defendant; and as was truly, though rather irreverently observed, allegations in a bill are often the flourishes of counsel, of which the plaintiff knows nothing. But all the authorities shew that the answer in Chancery was evidence against the defendant, because it was upon oath. Lord Chief Baron Gilbert said, The answer still carries higher weight of probability along with it, because this is delivered in upon oath, and, therefore, over and above the single confession, it has an authority from the sanction of an oath. Gilb. Ev. 50. Mr. Phillips (1 P71. Ev. 341) gives the same reason for the exclusion of the bill...
